The body was recovered by Charles White, a fisherman of New Castle, who towed it to the Kittery Point, shore and Coroner Bradford Woodbury of York was summoned. Mr. Woodbury viewed the body and decided that death was due to accidental drowning and turned the

EVENTS OF ELIOT

Mysterious Disease is Killing Chickens

Mrs. Sturtevant is to Take a Trip in Europe

Eliot, Me., July 19. A Republican caucus has been called for next Friday evening at Town hall, to choose four delegates to the county convention at Alfred on July 27.

Mrs. E. H. Sturtevant will sail for Europe, this week, planning to spend the rest of the summer in foreign travel. The Adventist Circle picnic will be held at Central Park, Dover, on Wednesday. Some mysterious disease is killing chickens in the southern part of the town. The young birds seem to grow dumplish and die in a few hours, from no apparent cause. In some cases, old hens have been the victims. A large number of chickens have died in the past week, more than half the number being lost from some flocks. The grange worked the first and second degrees on five candidates at a special meeting on Monday evening. The same candidates are expected to take the third and fourth degrees at the regular meeting next Monday night. The dry weather is seriously affecting the gardens. Beans, especially, are suffering, and in many cases withered pods are dropping from the vines.

At Green Acre this morning, Dr. Horatio W. Dresser of Cambridge, Mass., continued his series of addresses on "The Philosophy of Religion." In the afternoon instead of the expected readings by Rev. A. W. Littlefield, a lecture on Persia was given by M. Dreyfus of Paris. M. Dreyfus will also speak on Wednesday morning, his topic being "The Bahai Revelation." Wednesday being the birthday of Miss Farmer, founder of Green Acre, a special song recital will be given in her honor, by Mrs. Mary L. Lucas of Boston, lyric soprano, with Miss Mabel Stone of Boston, accompanist. The recital will be given at the Brethren at 3:15 p. m. with the following program: Vol. de sapientie..... Mozart Verdi pratt, Ask if You Damsk Rosa be Sweet, Sleep..... Handel Shadow Song, (by request)..... Meyerbeer Auf dem wasser zu singen, Du bist die Ruh, Wild Rose, Geheimes, Who is Sylvia? Hark, Hark, the Lark, Serenade..... Schubert Roselein! Roselein! Frulingsnacht, Achi die Quaken..... Paderevski Mignon, Au Printemps..... Gounod Sognai..... Schira Ballads, (by request)

NAVAL PRISON NOT AFFECTED

By New Law for the Paroling of Federal Prisoners

Washington, July 19.—Steps have been taken by the department of justice to put into operation the law passed at the last session of congress for paroling United States prisoners, thus establishing a practice that had been adopted by less than half of the states of the union. The law had the approval of Attorney General Wickersham and the paroling will be done under his guidance.

It will probably be two or three months before any prisoners receive benefit from the law, as many rules for procedure and recording have to be made. These are in course of preparation. Albert W. Ladow, superintendent of prisons, will leave Washington in the near future for a visit to the penitentiaries at McNeil island, Washington, Atlanta and Leavenworth, to set in motion the machinery to carry out the law. Approximately 2500 federal prisoners will be affected by the law.

Will Not Affect Prisoners Here. Mayor Leonard, commandant of the naval prison here, states that as far as he knows, the law will not affect this prison, as it applies only to those convicted of offenses in civil life.

GREAT RAILROAD STRIKE IN FRANCE

Paris, July 19.—Fifty thousand troops were rushed by special trains to every strategic railroad point in France, following the authorization of a general railroad strike by the National Railroads' union central committee.

Desertions from the railroads' rank at many places were reported today. The general strike will involve 100,000 men.

Every mile of railroad will be protected as far as possible, the government profiting by the night attacks made during the telegraphers' strike.

Special trains provided with searchlights will be run over the exposed lines at night.

Minor clashes were reported within a few hours of the final action by the labor men. It is believed on all sides that the strike will prove one of the worst in the history of the republic.

A special meeting of several cabinet officers was called by Premier Briand, who as minister of the interior, has the situation in his hands.

FROM EXETER

A Double Funeral on Monday

Memorial Gateway to the Academy

Exeter, July 19.—A sad and solemn occasion was the double funeral which was held on Monday afternoon at St. Michael's church, it being that of the victims of the shocking accident at Worcester, Mass., last Friday evening, Mrs. Oxy Infault, and her daughter, Mrs. John Hanlon, the latter a respected and esteemed lady of this town, and her mother, also a lady of esteem in Worcester. The bodies were brought here on the early afternoon train, and they were immediately taken to the church. It was well filled with friends and acquaintances, and as Mr. Francis J. Hapney conducted the service there was scarcely a dry eye in the church. The bearers were: James Cahill, William and Michael Callahan, John and John Jettie and George S. Brock. Burial was in the cemetery here.

The memorial gateway which was a gift to the Phillips-Exeter academy by this year's graduating class, has been completed, and stands as a monument and improvement to the appearance of the yard. It was completed Saturday. The pillars are of Harvard brick and are of ample proportions. The gate itself is painted green, and across it in letters of gilt is the inscription, "Gift of the Class of 1910." It is situated at the south entrance, nearly opposite of Penfold hall.

William Buck of Steubenville, O., arrived home today for a two weeks' vacation with his parents here. He is at present engaged as a chemist in the Labell steel works of that city. He is a former student at Thetford academy, and also the university of Vermont.

Victor Proulx, a clerk at Wetherell's drug store left this morning for a two weeks' vacation, which he will spend in different places.

Ernest Hutchins, former resident of this town, who left about a year ago, is now a resident of Houlton, Me., where he is chief of police.

Exeter will undoubtedly be represented by at least two golfers at the annual tournament of the New Hampshire Golf association, which is to be held this year on Labor day, Sept. 4, and following day, Sept. 5, at the course of Intervale Country club, at Manchester. These representatives will be Capt. Arthur F. Cooper and Laurence M. Crosby, instructor in English at the Phillips academy. A new cup will be presented this year for competition, the Rollins' cup having been won, and become permanent property.

Work of erecting the new water tank at the Boston and Maine railroad station has been begun, and a force of workmen is busy in the completion. It is to be situated on the top of the present one, and will hold a capacity of 50,000 gallons, which will be one of the largest in this section.

Rev. Fr. John E. Finen and Rev. Fr. Francis J. Hapney of St. Michael's church, attended the retreat of the New Hampshire diocese, which is being held at Manchester.

TO HELP MARILLA RICKER

Concord, July 19.—Mrs. Marilla Ricker has been offered the support in her candidacy for the governorship of New Hampshire of Alice Hubbard, wife of Albert Hubbard of East Aurora, N. Y.

The latter has offered to come to this state and speak on the campaign.

The best way to wash clothes.

Use three tubs, one for table linen; one for bed and body linen; one for the soiled towels and cloths.

Wet the clothes, rub Lenox Soap Solution over the soiled parts, fold and roll each piece by itself, pack in tub, cover with warm, soapy water and let stand over night.

TO MAKE LENOX SOAP SOLUTION:—Take a cake of Lenox Soap, shave it into small pieces, and dissolve in three quarts of boiling water. Keep water at boiling point until a solution is formed.

Lenox Soap Solution does better work than soap; and is more economical, because there is no waste.

WESTERN APPLE CROP IS VERY VALUABLE

Spokane, Wash., July 19.—Buyers for commission houses in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and other large distributing centers, traveling in the northwestern and Pacific states, estimate that 15,000 cars of from 9,500,000 to 10,000,000 boxes of apples, suitable for eastern markets, will be shipped from commercial orchards in Washington, California, Colorado, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and Utah this season.

It is also estimated that between 3000 and 4000 cars will be required to supply the local and European trade.

The market value of the crop in the several states is placed at from $27,000,000 to $29,000,000, at present prices.

NEW TRAINING SCHOOL FOR CADETS

New London, Conn., July 19.—The first step in the abandonment of Fort Trumbull by the war department to the treasury department was taken Monday when the 132d company coast artillery, went to Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island. The company will go into summer camp there, and in the fall will occupy new barracks.

On Aug. 1 the treasury department will assume control of Fort Trumbull, and the school for cadets of the revenue cutters service, now at Arundel Cove, Md., will be moved there.

The old army post was one of the most important strategic points in the revolutionary war.

For Mrs. Ricker, and it is understood that Mrs. Ricker will accept the offer in case her candidacy receives the approval of the legal authorities of the state.

STILL ANOTHER WARNING; WILL IT BE HEED?

For the fourth time within a few weeks and within a radius of five miles of this city, the fire fiend has eaten up another barn and contents, nothing remains but a few ashes to mark the former location. All farm buildings constructed of wood are in constant danger of conflagration, which in the majority of cases, means total destruction, for lack of fire fighting facilities, and the unfortunate owner is homeless and suffers heavy loss with little or no insurance. But there is a brighter side to this picture. Way back before the birth of Christ, cement was used in the construction of the mighty temples, the walls of which can still be seen in all of their rugged grandeur, firmly cemented together, resisting alike storms and winds, heat and cold of hundreds of years, unconquered and unconquerable, and they will so continue for myriads of years in the dim and misty future. Cement has come once more to its own, and stands today on its lofty pinnacle far and above all other building materials, and is now universally recognized as the one and only thoroughly reliable building material which defies frost, moisture, heat, cold, rain and weather, and grows harder and better as the ages roll round. Use cement for houses, barns, garages, beach houses, etc., and no insurance will be necessary.

PROPAGATION OF SEALS

St. Paul, Minn., July 19.—The proposition of George M. Bowers, United States commissioner of Fisheries, to add seals to the $240,000,000 of Minnesota's annual product is greatly interesting people of the state. He declares that the experiments of his department have proven that seals can be bred and reared in fresh water and that they do not require a frigid zone for successful propagation.

Some of the lightminded are poking fun at Mr. Bowers, declaring that the time will come when a Minnesota farmer can go down to the pond and pick a Christmas seal skin coat for his wife, but the department is serious and believes that the industry which has paid the government in hunting licenses $2,000,000 more than the cost of Alaska, can be handled in the cold lakes of Minnesota and especially along the rocky shores of Lake Superior. The Government bureau has had seal pups in captivity in Washington for six months, experimenting with them and is convinced that even in the warmer climate of that district the industry can be successfully maintained.

Lake Superior is regarded as an especially favorable district for further experiments. The Minnesota shores are rocky and broken, much resembling the Pacific coast line. The waters of Lake Superior are cold and deep and the north shore in Minnesota is so isolated and inaccessible as to provide an ideal breeding ground.

The trade in skins in the Alaskan waters has amounted to $60,000, 0 since the United States came into possession of that territory. The original seal herds were estimated at 5,000,000 and through continual hunting have been reduced to 170,000, the depletion being so great that the Government has terminated its contracts with the Alaska Commercial Company in order to give the herds a chance to multiply.

Marie Tempest just missed being a nurse. In her younger days as she was planning to enter a hospital, a manager discovered her musical talent and induced her to follow the stage. "Of course I'm glad I chose the path I did," she said, "but I still think nursing is a very noble profession and one for which women are preeminently suited."

Eugene Bréux has been journeying in India and China. Upon his return to Paris he lectured about the Far East. Now, according to the gossip of the boulevards, he is writing a play which has all its scenes and most of its characters in and of the Orient.

Bernard Shaw, recently having been asked some questions about modern stage effects, replied: "Except for the electric light installation and the compulsory fireproof curtain, our stages are provided with nothing more advanced than the contrivances of the 17th and 18th centuries. I am not aware that the modern theatre in England offers any special or individual opportunities to artists as a tradesman; but this has two good results: First, he turns out very good work; and second, he makes a living neither of which advantages is so far as I have been able to ascertain, enjoyed by our academic painters."

In Barrie's playlet, "A slip of the Lip," a husband and a wife, each with an alleged past, confess to each other that these pasts were mere inventions and that they are actually passionless. The denouement when they discover each other innocent in stead of guilty gives the author a chance for a bit of fine satire on modern society.

Miss Billie Darke has sailed away to spend the summer at Penzance on the Cornwall coast. She will return anon to play in "Mrs. Dot" in the western cities where that comedy has not been seen, and later will have a new piece, Charles Frohman is gradually increasing his theatre buildings in England as well as in America. Before sailing for America last week he purchased an interest in the new Adelphi theatre which promises to be the handsomest in London. The old theatre, an unusually spacious one is being reconstructed and redecorated with great lavishness in addition to this property, Mr. Frohman owns the Globe and the Duke of York's in London.

Miss Margaret Hington will return to the stage at Tacoma on Aug. 26 with a play from the French entitled "Until Eternity," adapted by Edward Elmer. Among the members of the company in support of Miss Hington are Miss Nina Morris, Miss Lilla Vance, Miss Lucy Shannon, Miss Florence Thompson, Miss Zillah Shannon, Walter Edwards, Edward Elmer, John D. Barry and Melville Rosenow. Miss Hington will be seen in New York in the winter season at the Maine Billiard theatre. Her route will be booked in independent playhouses.

Mark Smith of "Three Million Dollars" came quite accurately by his talent for musical productions, for his father, for whom he was named, was in all the successes of the New York Casino from "Emmy's" down.

Charles Frohman states that the correct title of Henri Bernstein's latest play is "After Me, the..." The piece will have its first performance in France under the title of "Après Moi," at the Comedie Française in October. It will thus be the first Bretonne play ever given state recognition by a performance in the literary theatre of France.

MEMBERSHIP OF THE HOUSE

Republicans Are Making Plans to Restrict It Would Affect the South

Number in Lower Branch of Congress Will Be Four Hundred and Ten on Probable Basis of New Enumeration—Calculations Are Somewhat Disturbed by Rapid Growth of Oklahoma—Where Gains Are Expected

Washington, July 19.—The Republican plan to reduce southern Democratic representation in congress reappears in the determination of the leaders to restrict the membership as much as possible under the new census. The house now numbers 391. On the probable basis of the new enumeration, it would number 410.

The leaders are now pointing out that with its present membership it is unwieldy and they would like to reduce the list to 350, on the ostensible ground of expedition of business. States like Missouri, Texas, Georgia and Alabama have grown rapidly and will be entitled to larger representation but the Republicans calculate that the population gained here will be lost to other states from which emigration has been large.

The figures at present used by the computers for the Republicans will make the basis of representation 729,000. If these figures will increase the membership of the house more than twenty, the basis will be raised, as it is determined that the total number shall not go above 410.

It is estimated that the southern states, not counting Delaware and West Virginia, will show a population of a little more than 29,000,000. With the ratio fixed at 220,000 this would give that section one or two more representatives than at present. If the population should exceed 29,000,000, the ratio will be raised enough to keep down the number of representatives, even though it should hurt some of the northern states.

Oklahoma comes in to disturb the calculations of the Republicans. The gain in that new state has been marvelous, and is estimated at enough to give her five or six new representatives, and Oklahoma is usually classed as a southern state. So its gain will be taken from the older southern states.

In New York the great gain has been in the city of New York, which, of course, will redound, so far as congress is concerned, to the benefit of the Democrats, but in the electoral college that gain may go to the Republicans. According to the present figures New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Ohio and Minnesota will reap all the gains that will be made in the north, and if the total number can be kept down to 410, as the Republican leaders hope, the states mentioned will be the only real gainers, as what will be gained by Missouri, Texas, Alabama and Oklahoma will be taken from other Democratic states.

Should the ratio of representation be kept at the present figures and the membership of the house be increased accordingly, the great gainers, it is believed, will be New York, Pennsylvania and the states in the middle west. Under such a distribution it is feared that the north will gain between thirty-five and forty representatives and the south twenty-three to twenty-five. Some of the Republican leaders are earnestly urging this solution of the question, as it would give the Republican section a greater preponderance than it now has.

INQUEST CONTINUED

But Little Light on the Murder of Wife of Crippen

London, July 19.—At the inquest into the death of Belle Elmore, for whose murder Dr. H. H. Crippen is being sought the world over, John Nash, a theatrical manager, said that he noticed the Lenoir woman wearing Belle Elmore's jewels after the latter had supposedly gone to California. Afterward he was told that Mrs. Crippen had died in California.

Mr. Nash declared that he had questioned Crippen closely as to the exact place of death and other details, but received only unsatisfactory details.

"I went to Scotland Yard immediately," he said, "and asked immediate action."

The inquest was adjourned till August 15.

THREE SPEECHES IN MAINE

Will Be Delivered by President Taft While on His Outing

Beverly, Mass., July 19.—With guns crashing the presidential salute of twenty-one guns, Burgess Point reverberated with the noise of the welcome to President Taft as he boarded the Mayflower for the ten days' cruise to Maine. The band played the national anthem and the president's blue flag was run up on the main truck. Five minutes later the Mayflower was steaming down along the north shore.

The president has consented to make three speeches at different points in Maine. The first visit ashore will be at Eastport, where the first speech will be delivered. The second speech will be at Bangor on the 3d, and the third will be delivered at Rockland on the 26th. Mr. Taft will spend three days at Bar Harbor.

SPOONERS GUARDED BY LANTERNS' LIGHT

Special Policemen Are on Duty in New York's Big Parks

New York, July 19.—For the protection of couples who are wont to do their summer spooning on the benches in the parks against the attacks of ruffians who hide in the shrubbery many special policemen carrying blue lanterns were placed on duty in Crotona, Claremont, St. Mary's, Bronx and Van Cortlandt parks.

Since the opening of the park season many complaints of assaults by ruffians were filed with the park department. Couples seated on the benches frequently were beaten, the dresses of women torn with hooks or soiled by ink or other fluids thrown upon them and men's hats carried away or ruined by mischief makers, who evaded capture by hiding in the shrubbery.

BRIDE-TO-BE DISAPPEARS

Perhaps Kidnapped as Hour Set For Wedding Drew Near

New York, July 19.—Believing that she was kidnapped by a rival suitor, detectives are hunting for Mazie Cullen, 17 years old, who disappeared two hours before she was to have been married. Wedding guests had assembled when word came that Mazie could not be found. Her fiancé, John Fernandez, is distracted.

That she was carried away or lured to some house and detained is the general belief. The girl went to St. Mary's Roman Catholic church two hours before the ceremony was to be performed. She seemed in the best of spirits. Passing around the corner of Leonard street she disappeared.

WEDS HER FOSTER FATHER

Kansas City, July 19.—Adopted when 4 years old and now aged 18, a girl has become the bride of Francis B. Brooks, her foster father. Brooks, who is 37 years old and a traveling man, lives in Neodesha, Kan.

When Brooks and his first wife adopted the little girl who has become his wife they selected her from several children the court had for adoption.

Fleeing Bank Cashier Caught Philadelphia, July 19.—J. H. Lowery, a bank teller, who disappeared from Ulca, N. Y., and was later charged with embezzling $115,000 from the Ulca National bank, was captured in this city.

GRAND TRUNK MEN OUIT WORK

Twenty-Five Hundred Obey an Order to Strike

IT HITS CENTRAL VERMONT

President Hays Says Substantial Increases in Wages Were Offered Conductors and Trainmen—Was Willing to Arbitrate If Employees Were Not Satisfied—Controversy on Pennsylvania Road Settled

Montreal, July 19.—Conductors and trainmen of the Grand Trunk and Central Vermont railways to the number of 2500 obeyed an automatic strike order at 9:30 o'clock last night.

On Sunday, when the members of the strike committee left here, each man carried a sealed envelope to be opened at that hour calling a strike unless a telegram had previously been received which, upon comparison with a copy enclosed in the envelope, stated otherwise. No such telegram was sent and the strike became effective at 9:30.

Under the terms of the strike order trains which began their runs before 9:30 were to be taken through to the terminal by the men in charge. After that the company was expected to look after its own interests.

President Hays of the Grand Trunk had this to say of the situation:

"We have done the best we can, having regard to the interests of the shareholders and of the men themselves. We have offered substantial increases in wages. For instance, we give conductors between Montreal and Portland an increase from $10 to $13.50; between Montreal and Brockville from $9 to $14 a month; between Montreal and Toronto from $10 to $14, and baggage men from $7 to $8.50, and brakemen from $5.50 and $6 to $8.

"On mileage rates conductors of through trips are to be raised from 2.00 to 2.36 cents a mile, and brakemen from 1.00 to 2.25 cents.

"On the runs between Montreal and Ottawa conductors are raised from $10 to $14 a month; baggage men from $7 to $8.50, and so on.

"When I put this to the men I said further that this was a large increase, but that if they did not think it satisfactory there was still another alternative. I said I was willing in such case to go to the arbitration of a board of expert railway men as to whether or not the proposition was fair and would be willing to abide by their decision.

"Further, I said to the representatives of the men: 'Suppose a strike is brought on, with all its disturbance of conditions and business. What shall we do eventually but settle it as I have proposed? You will have displaced a great many men, created great losses all over, and got no further ahead.' But they refused to listen to this."

Each Side Claims Victory

Philadelphia, July 19.—General Manager Myers of the Pennsylvania railroad, and the contrailtees representing the 35,000 trainmen and conductors employed on the lines of the road east of Pittsburgh, agreed on a basis for the settlement of the wage controversy. Each side claims to have gained all that it had been outstanding for in the negotiations which have been in progress for the past six months and which culminated in the strike vote by the employees.

The proposal offered by the railroad officials and accepted by the men includes a minimum day of ten hours, as detailed by the New York Central award.

On certain runs, where the company's present rate is higher, the rate will not be disturbed.

The classification of these exceptional runs and the question of overtime were left to be decided at conference between the various members of the committees and the division superintendents of the lines which they represent.

TUFTS FOR GRAND JURY

Former Cashier of Rockport Bank Waives Examination

Boston, July 19.—George W. Tufts, former cashier of the Rockport National bank of Rockport, who is accused of misappropriation of the bank's funds, waived examination when he appeared before Commissioner Hayes. Tufts was ordered held for the federal grand jury, which sits in September.

The amount of the bail bond required was reduced from $15,000 to $5000, owing to the fact that examination of the bank's books proved the shortage was much less than at first suspected. It is likely the shortage will be under $6000.

GETS HIS PAY AFTER THIRTY-NINE YEARS

Uncle Sam Squares Long Standing Bill of Army Officer

Washington, July 19.—If any one doubts that Uncle Sam often is tardy in settling his just debts all they have to do to dispel that illusion is to ask Brigadier General Harry R. Anderson, U. S. A., retired, to whom the government has acknowledged that he has had coming to him for some thirty-nine years a small amount of government cash—$240.10.

Fair minded people will think that Uncle Sam, to do the handsome thing, ought to pay the general interest on the money he has not had the use of in this long period, but your Uncle Samuel never pays interest on such debts.

CORBETT HAS A PROTEGE

Digs Up an Unknown Whom He Wants to Fight Johnson

New York, July 19.—James J. Corbett has an "unknown" under cover, who he hopes will show himself fit to win the title that Jim Jeffries lost to Jack Johnson at Reno.

Hugh McIntosh has been sufficiently impressed to put out a challenge in behalf of the unknown, later as a side bet. If Johnson declines the offer is open to any other man worthy to be considered a candidate for heavyweight honors.

Corbett refuses to make known the identity of his protege, and there is some doubt in sporting circles that he has anything more specific in mind than a desire to see Johnson whipped.

Monteiro Held For Grand Jury

New Bedford, Mass., July 19.—Mamuel Monteiro was in court here to answer to two charges of shooting with intent to kill Arsenia J. Lopes and Matilda Lopes, his sweetheart and her mother, respectively. He waived examination and was held for the grand jury in $7500 on two counts.

Boys Cause Train Wreck

Fort Worth, Tex., July 19.—A wreck on the St. Louis and San Francisco railroad near Tolar, in which the engineer was killed, was due to two small boys who drove spikes in the ties next to the rail "to see what would happen." The boys were arrested.

CONSERVATION ROW IS ENDED

Nelson and Brandlis Will Not Speak at Congress

ADVICE FROM ROOSEVELT

Said to Have Been to Effect That Kansas City Editor, a Bitter Critic of the Taft Administration, and Representative of Glavis in Ballinger-Pinchot Hearing Had Better Not Pay Visit to St. Paul

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 19.—Theodore Roosevelt says that the differences among those interested in the success of the conservation congress at St. Paul have been settled and that he will speak before the congress on Sept. 6. He has been informed that his friend, W. R. Nelson, editor of the Kansas City Star, and Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who represented L. R. Glavis in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation by congress, will not be able to attend, as originally planned.

It is reported from St. Paul that the announcement that Nelson will not speak at the meeting has restored harmony and quieted those who were trying to disrupt the national conservation congress, called to meet in September.

Governor Brandeis and other conservation Republicans are disappointed to find a few days ago to have St. Paul withdraw the invitation. Objection was made to the appearance of speakers like Nelson, who has been a bitter critic of the Taft administration, and to Brandeis, whose anti-administration attitude is also well understood.

Not long after the trouble started, however, B. N. Baker, president of the congress, was notified by both Nelson and Brandeis that they could not be present, both having recollections that they had important engagements elsewhere.

It is strongly suspected that Roosevelt had a hand in persuading Nelson and Brandeis that it would be a wise thing to withdraw. It is known that Roosevelt informed the officers of the congress that any serious interference with the program of the congress would lead him to withdraw his acceptance of the invitation to visit St. Paul.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech at St. Paul probably will be the most important of his western tour. He is going to try to keep all political pilgrims from Sacramento Hill for a week. He wants to catch up with his correspondence and prepare the speeches he intends to make in the west. No political conferences will be held here this week unless Roosevelt changes his mind. He will go to the Outlook office today and probably will talk with political visitors who call upon him there.

FAMOUS SALOONS CLOSED

Gaynor Leaves but Two on New York's Great White Way

New York, July 19.—Under the new dispensation of Mayor Gaynor, there now remains in a city of nearly 4,000,000 just six places where a wayfarer abroad after 1 o'clock in the morning may walk in through the front door and order a drink within the law.

The mayor's scrutiny of the all-night license list resulted in a second cut by which the thirteen remaining from the original forty odd; when the mayor took the subject first under advisement, were still further abridged. Those penalized include many names known from coast to coast.

Only two places in all the merry midnight section now remain open legally after 1 o'clock. Down town four places retain their all-night licenses, all of them supposed to be of benefit to those engaged in all-night newspaper work.

JAIL BIRDS TAKE FLIGHT

Forger and Pickpocket Saw Their Way Out of New Jersey Prison

Camden, N. J., July 19.—Sawing through two iron bars in a window of the county jail here, William Brown, serving a sentence of seven years for forgery, and Charles Berger, serving six months for picking pockets, reached the roof of the prison and escaped by sliding down the rainspout to the street.

Brown was recently arrested in Newark on charges preferred against him here and was speedily convicted. He is also said to be wanted in New York on a charge of forgery.

MYER TURNS TO THE NAVY

Money and Social Ambition Made His Army Career But He Is Now

Washington, July 19.—General Albert J. Myer, Jr., U. S. A., the young Tech graduate whose money and social ambition made his army career for him to be a soldier by day and a social lion by night, will solve his personal problems by entering the navy as assistant paymaster.

Young Myer desired to follow the career of his grandfather, General Myer, for whom Port Myer, near Washington, is named. Twice he failed to enter West Point, because he was only an alternate and not a principal, and then he enlisted and was made a corporal in the army.

He studied hard and made a good soldier, but his wealth and social popularity brought him into contact with his superiors in the drawing rooms of Washington, and finally his dilemma so worked on him that he was to upset him when he took his examinations for promotion to a commission. He failed, but turned to the navy, and soon will be commissioned as assistant paymaster, with prospects of rapid promotion.

IN THE FIGHT IT STAY

Uncle Joe Is Not Scared by Magazines or Insurgents

Emporia, Kan., July 19.—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon has the speaker's race to stay. His made evident in his speech here, in the course of which he said:

"They wanted me to believe that I would not be a candidate for speaker if the Republicans have a majority of the next house."

"But as long as God holds me live, the muckraking periodicals and the so-called independent progressive Republicans shall not make me say that I will not be a candidate for speaker any more than they shall make me say, if I am elected to congress, that I will not vote when my name is called."

The speaker was much affected by the heat, but ice applications to his head and neck restored him and he spoke with his customary vigor.

MONEY POURS IN TO ZION CITY BARREL

Scenes During the Reign of "Prophet" Dowd Are Revived

Chicago, July 19.—If ever coins and bills a foot and a half deep were thrown into a tri-colored barrel placed before the pulpit at Zion City tabernacle by the followers of William Voliva, general pastor of the Christian Catholic Apostolic Church of Zion and successor to John A. Dowd, who marched over the north shore city and took formal possession of the buildings which again came into their control through the action of the federal court dissolving the receivership.

It was like a revival of the old days of Dowd. The call for the free will offering preceded a great shout from the city, and thousands of men, women and children filed past the barrel that stood before the pulpit and cast their offerings, ranging from 5 cent pieces to $20 bills.

CLAIMS SELF DEFENSE

Boston Landlord Shakes Lodger Dead During a Fight

Boston, July 19.—James Farrell, 46 years old, a lodging house keeper at 906 Washington street, shot and killed James A. Lawson, 28, a lodger at the same address, last night, following a renewed quarrel that began Saturday night, when two of Lawson's friends were ejected from the house. Two shots were fired.

Patrolman Healy ran to the house and placed Farrell under arrest. Lawson was found dead at the foot of a bed with a bullet wound on the left side of his face and another through his arm and side.

Mrs. Lawson is a niece of Mrs. Farrell. All have lived in the house about a year. When searched, a quantity of opium and morphine was found on Farrell.

HELD ON ARSON CHARGE

Former Salem Politician Is Charged With Setting a Fire

Chelsea, Mass., July 19.—Fred Merchant of Salem, formerly a policeman in that city, is held in $10,000 by the Chelsea court for a hearing on a charge of arson.

Merchant was arrested in connection with the fire at the May 25 in the unoccupied tenement house in the rear of 276 Second street, this city, which did $5000 damage to that building and $1000 damage to a dwelling opposite. Several persons were rescued by the police.

SMILE AND WAIT.

One of the hardest and yet one of the most useful lessons we can ever learn is to smile and wait after we have done our best. He is not a philosopher who has not learned the secret of smiling and waiting. A great many people can smile at difficulties who cannot wait, who lack patience, but the man who can both smile and wait, if he has the tenacity of purpose which never turns back, will surely win.

BRAZIL AND PORTSMOUTH

The people of the United States will soon have an opportunity to show to a great South American general and statesman whether they are really interested in our sister republics or not. On August 5 there will arrive in New York city Marshal Hermes da Fonseca, president-elect of Brazil. He will remain four weeks in this country, calling first upon President Taft at Beverly, then upon Secretary Knox at Valley Forge, and afterward visiting such of the principal cities of the United States as he may see fit to accept invitations from.

The visit of President-elect Fonseca has special significance on Brazil is rapidly forging ahead to a position as a world power, with corresponding development of closer diplomatic relations with the United States; it has an area so great that it could be placed at the connected territory of the United States from California to New York, with room still left over for those two states; it has a population of 20,000,000, which is greater than that of any other American country aside from the United States; it has an annual foreign commerce valued at $500,000,000, which is second only to Canada and Argentina after the United States; it is just entering upon a period of great material and commercial expansion, which will call for the investment of millions of United States money and a vast quantity of products manufactured by the capital and labor of this country; it has a coastline on the Atlantic ocean twice as great as that of the United States, and out of the Amazon river flows four times the volume of water that empties into the Gulf of Mexico from the Mississippi; its capital city, Rio de Janeiro, has a population of 1,000,000, while it has in Sao Paulo, Bahia, Para, Pernambuco, Manaus, Santos and Rio Grande do Sul, other places that are growing as rapidly as the western cities of the United States; its largest state, Amazonas, covers 722,000 square miles, or nearly three times that of Texas.

President Fonseca will be accompanied by Dr. Jose Carlos Rodrigues, an eminent newspaper man of Latin America and the proprietor of the "Jornal do Commercio" of Rio de Janeiro, one of the greatest newspapers of the world.

Marshal Fonseca's visit to America is to be mainly a tour of ship-building plants, with a view to determining where to place some Brazilian naval contracts.

It calls attention, however, to the facts given above, about Brazil. The United States ought to have more commerce with that country. The Brazilians buy most of their machinery and manufactured goods in Europe, while the United States takes the greater part of their coffee.

There ought to be regular shippings of New Hampshire and Maine manufacturers from the port of Portsmouth to Brazil, and a regular return of the ships with coffee and other Brazilian products.

BIRDS EYE VIEWS

A Florida Negro has cleared $2,000 from six acres of strawberries. And the chances are that he is a much better citizen than our heavy-weight pugilistic champion.

The exchange of compliments between Secretary Dickinson and Count Komura at Tokio reads all the better because of squaring with public sentiment in both America and Japan. Sensationalism has not so far impeded, and should not at any time impair, the friendship of the two governments. The efforts, however, will not cease. Nor will they be confined to agitators in America and Japan. It is to be remembered that certain European influences have picked the antagonists for the next great "scrap" between nations, with the Pacific as the war water. They will do their best to try to force Uncle Sam and the mikado to cross swords. But, while that sensationalism is to be deplored, yet the government of the mikado is one against which the United States should constantly be on guard.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The Marine Corps

It is to be hoped that the censures administered by the navy department as a result of the recent court of inquiry into conditions in the marine corps will have a wholesome effect and put a stop to the factional feeling and manifestations so plainly in evidence for months. This branch of the naval service scored a high prestige during the war with Spain. The efficiency of the marine landing parties was early demonstrated in that campaign and caused the marine officers and enlisted men to receive the high praise of the country. Nothing has happened recently to lessen the regard of the public for the men of this corps of the ranks. It has been plain that some of the commissioned officers have been playing politics in a manner deserving of severe rebuke and calculated to lessen greatly the efficiency of the corps in case of an emergency. It is unfortunate that efforts have been made on the part of any faction of officers to dictate the appointment of the next commandant. Perhaps some fault lies with the higher officials of the naval organization for not taking earlier cognizance of the conditions in the corps and sharply reminding all officers that the responsibility for the choice of the highest officer and the reorganization of the corps upon the retirement of the present chief lies with the president, and not with the subordinate officer. Now the rebuke has been administered, and it is to be hoped that it will be effective, though belated, and that this proceeding will put an end positively to the insubordinate, irresponsible carrying of tales and spreading of rumors and the use of unsoldierlike language, of which the court of inquiry has found abundant evidence. Probably these censures will be all that is necessary to re-establish discipline and to restore the marine corps to its high state of efficient organization for which it has been traditionally noted.—Washington Star.

Respectfulness and Obedience

A Brooklyn man, who is educating his son in France, explains that he is doing so in order that the boy may learn three things—how to study, respectfulness and obedience. "These things cannot be taught in a school in this country. Children in America do not learn either respect or obedience, and they do learn it abroad," comments the father. If the schools are depended upon to teach respect and obedience the American youth will never have that polish which is a distinguishing mark of children in several foreign countries. These two things should be taught in the home, and parents who shift the burden to instructors in private or public school ought not to be shocked if their offspring fail to display good manners in after life. If mothers and fathers are not competent to compel respect and obedience, or are so indifferent that they do not try, they should not be surprised if a teacher with from 30 to 60 children to look after fails along these lines. The work must be done at home. That is the place where the child is under the mother's watchful eye every minute of the day until it is old enough to thoroughly understand what respect and obedience mean. The trouble is that too

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all. Can't cure a bad back until you cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys—make you feel better, work better, rest better and sleep better.

Permanent cures in Portsmouth prove the merit of Doan's.

Joseph Libbey, 31 High street, Portsmouth, N. H., says: "A sharp pain across the small of my back was the first symptoms of kidney trouble in my case. Dizzy spells soon set in and whenever I caught cold, I was in misery. When I awoke mornings I felt tired and my whole body was sore. I at length heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and procuring a box at Philbrick's Drug Store, began their use. This remedy soon relieved me and I have used it on several occasions since then with good results."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McIlhenny Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

New York City Turns Streets Into Children's Bathtub

Hot weather in New York means the slaying of hundreds of children each year. In the crowded east side district, where as many as 30,000 people will crowd into one block, the health officers of New York city are trying a cold water bath to help relieve the suffering children. Police, health officers and water department men make a round of the east side district three times a day and give a free street bath to all the children that care to apply. The fire plugs are opened, and a stream of water from a three inch pipe goes spouting out into the streets. Armed with breechcloths, the children stand under the spraying water, and water fights result; but, what is important, the health officials declare, the lives of hundreds of children are being saved by the daily baths. To turn the public streets into a public bath is something new, but it is helping the suffering poor.

much is left for teachers. They can continue the work, but the foundation should be firmly laid before the boy or girl is of the age to take an educational course. The schools are doing their part, despite the view of the Brooklyn man. The failure is elsewhere.—Brooklyn Standard Union.

An American Freak

Probably nowhere else in the world except in America can anyone see the spectacle of the tearing down of a gigantic, well constructed and comely building hardly fourteen years old, to make room for the erection of a skyscraper, still more monstrous. Paris witnessed the razing of many old mansions to open her superb highways, but there was no modern skyscraper in the way of the avenue, and only an American would be in such a hurry to pile an Ossa of his conceit on the ruins of a Pella which he had reared so recently.

Unless there is some stop to the raze of the new castle building in New York, any freak of creation is possible. The Giltender building with its sixteen lofty stories was thought to be destined to a long life on Wall street, at the opening of this rushing century, but it is cut down now in the flower of its youth to be replaced by another tower of iron and cement, which may in turn be towered by a monster still more avicious. All the subways and elevated railways that can be driven through and over the shen of the island of Manhattan must fall some day to drain the currents pulsing to the tops of the myriad of crowding skyscrapers.—Nashua Telegraph.

TUCKER—STEVENS

Marriage of a Locomotive Engineer Well Known Here

James Field Tucker, a well known engineer on the Boston and Maine railroad, between Dover and Lakeport, and Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Stevens, daughter of Dr. J. W. Stevens, of Lakeport, were married Sunday night at Lovell lake, Sanbornville, the home of the groom, by Rev. Adolph E. Draper, pastor of the Methodist church of that town. Miss Miriam P. Hinckley of Boston attended the bride, while Charles H. Tucker, son of the groom, acted as best man. Daniel W. Hinckley, also of Boston, was among the few guests who witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker will reside in Sanbornville. The groom was formerly engineer on the run between Sanbornville and Portsmouth, and has many friends here, who will be pleased to learn of his happiness. During the last two or three years he has been on the run between Lakeport and Dover.

SUICIDE AT LACONIA

Alfred J. Cunningham Ended His Life on Monday

Laconia, July 19.—Despondent over family troubles, Alfred J. Cunningham, 65 years of age, committed suicide at his home on Appleton street on Monday afternoon, by taking a large quantity of Paris green.

It was thought that he took the poison at about one o'clock, as it was about that time that he retired to his chamber with an excuse that he was to rest. He was found at five o'clock, suffering intensely. Dr. G. H. Saltmarsh was called, but Mr. Cunningham was beyond medical aid and died shortly after.

Mr. Cunningham was in the poultry business, and it was thought he was in very comfortable circumstances. A son, at present not notified of the affair, survives him, with his residence in Manchester.

YORK COUNTY SEAT LOCATION

And Other Matters for the Maine Referendum

Augusta, Me., July 19.—For the first time, in the coming state election the voters will have a chance to pass on matters which were enacted by the legislature but which failed of becoming operative through the medium of the initiative and the referendum. Three acts have been held up.

Of the three questions which will go to the people there is only one of state-wide interest, the act to make uniform the standard relating to the percentage of alcohol in intoxicating liquors, which is commonly known as the one per cent bill. Under the present law liquors containing less than three per cent of alcohol are not intoxicating under the meaning of the statute and in this class are included Uno beer, Allwanger, Hitha and other beverages which are sold in many instances for good lager beer in communities where the prohibitory liquor law is being enforced. But the United States requires that a revenue tax of $20 a year shall be paid for the sale of these kinds of beer. In fact, the tax for selling the beers under the three per cent limit is the same as that required for the genuine lager or ale. This bill was introduced in the senate by Senator Carl E. Milliken of Island Falls and therefore was known as the Milliken bill. The fact is very brief as follows: "Alcoholic liquors which may not be sold except by payment of the revenue tax to the United States government are hereby declared to be intoxicating within the meaning of all statutes of this state."

The act relating to the reconstruction of Portland bridge, a measure which was introduced by Representative Rounds of the Forest City, is absolutely of no interest whatever except to the residents of Portland.

There have been town division fights in the past but those who have followed the doings of the legislature for the past 25 years cannot remember a contest that was more bitter than that of the opposing factions over the bill to divide the town of York and establish the town of Gorges. York is the oldest town in the state.

In addition to these three propositions, the citizens of York county will this fall vote on the question according to Chapter 153 of the public laws of 1909 as to whether the shire town of York county shall be changed and if so to establish the shire town of Saco, Kennebunk or Sanford. Thirty-four thousand of these ballots will be printed so the voters of York county will exercise their right of suffrage on three different ballots in the coming election.

Some question has arisen as to whether these referendum matters should be placed on the same ballot as the names of the candidates for the several offices or on a separate ballot. There is nothing in any of the various statutes determining this question and the attorney general's department has failed to find a precedent after a careful perusal of the laws of 31 states. Secretary of State Brown thinks, however, that the referendum questions should be placed on a separate ballot as it is believed that a fairer consensus of the voters would be gained in this way.

DOVER DOINGS

Dover, July 18.—Arrangements are nearing completion for the annual field day of Eastern New Hampshire Pomona grange, and all indications point to the event being the biggest success of any field day held in recent years. The date decided upon is on Wednesday, Aug. 3 and the place that has been chosen for the event is Central park, which on that day will be placed by the street railway management at the disposal of the grangers. The program will include field sports in the forenoon, basket picnic at noon and address by prominent grangers of the state in the park casino in the afternoon also a literary and musical entertainment.

During the past few days there has been a number of disappointed arrivals at Granite State park, many of the horsemen apparently being unaware of the fact that the proposed four days' light harness meeting had been declared off. Some of the horses at the park came from New Jersey and New York states.

Although not mentioned in the lists previously published of candidates having filed declarations of candidacy, as required under the new primary election law, William W. Martin, register of probate, and F. S. Thompkins, register of deeds of Strafford county, were among the very first to file such declarations with the secretary of state on Friday, July 8, the first day that declarations could be filed. Other local candidates having filed declarations are Hubert K. Reynolds and Henry H. Clifford, Republican candidates for county commissioner; James H. Southwick, Republican candidate for register of probate; George T. Hughes, candidate for county solicitor; Thomas Sherry and Gerald A. Scarr, candidates for representatives, and both Republicans.

Alvah H. Place of Newmarket, who is said to contemplate being a candidate for councillor in the first district now represented by Councilor A. M. Foss of this city has been in Dover several times during the past few days, looking over the grounds. He also visited Portsmouth, which also has a candidate in City Marshal Thos. Entwistle, who for a number of years past has been a constant aspirant for political honors, and there are few if any he has gone after that haven't been his.

Otis T. Campbell, sanitary inspector at Panama, is visiting Lawyer J. Sunderlund, Jr., of this city with whom he was associated during the two years spent by the latter in Panama.

The funeral of Miss Rebecca Wentworth will be held at the Wentworth homestead in Hollisford this noon, Rev. D. M. Eaton of the Universalist church officiating.

The members of the Fourth Artillery company of this city are considering the matter of electing a new captain in the place of Capt. Frank Butler, who left Dover suddenly last March, taking with him, it is alleged all of the company's funds, amounting to $300 or $400, and has since been missing. The matter of electing a new captain of the company follows the dismissal from the service of Captain Butler. It is probable that Lieut. Frank Russ will be the new captain of the company, of which he has been a member for more than a dozen years.

Harry Hanson, banker at Mexico City, Mexico, and former well known Dover boy, is visiting his mother, Mrs. Nat Hanson of this city, and his brother, Stacey Hanson, president of the common council.

Perhaps a body of volunteers might come together and clean up the street at the North End.

ONE MOMENT PLEASE!

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, cut signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours,

BALLINGER TO BE FOUND NOT GUILTY

Chicago, July 19.—According to a special despatch in the Chicago Tribune today, under a Washington date line, Sec. Richard A. Ballinger will be exonerated by a majority report of the joint congressional committee which for an extensive investigation of the affairs of the department of forestry and of the bureau of forestry and the department of agriculture.

The investigators who concur in the majority report, which carries a condemnation of the course of ex-Chief Forester Pinchot, J. B. Garfield, and Louis R. Glavis, according to the Tribune story, are Senators Nelson, Flint, Burdette and Root and Representatives McCall, Denby and O'Connell.

It also is declared that a minority report will be filed, declaring Ballinger guilty of the charges made with the majority report.

The minority report, it is asserted, will conflict almost every particular with the majority report.

Manila, July 19.—Dean C. Worcester, American secretary of the interior for the Philippines, was set upon by renegade Moros on the island of Palawan Monday and escaped assassination only through the alertness of his body guard, who shot down the outlaws, killing three of them.

Sec. Worcester was touring the island, which is the most westerly of the larger of the Philippines group, bounding the Sulu sea on the west, and was present at the installation of the new governor.

In anticipation of his coming, a band of Moros planned his death. Armed with bolos, carefully concealed, they laid a trap for the secretary, who suddenly found himself the object of a savage rush.

Capt. Moynihan of the scouts was the first to recognize the hostile movement, and just in the nick of time he ordered the scouts to fire. At the fusillade three Moros, who led the attack, dropped dead in their tracks, while several others doubled up with more or less severe wounds. The rest of them took to their heels.

Three RENEGADE MORES KILLED

HORSES AND LIONS IN A RUNAWAY

Providence, R. I., July 19.—Six terrified horses, drawing a circus wagon loaded with lions, and running wild through the busiest thoroughfare of the city Monday created great excitement until brought to a halt by the courageous driver.

The six horses drawing a wagon containing a clown band of ten pieces and four lions, became frightened when the team was at the crest of Pine street hill. Despite the efforts of the driver to quiet the frightened animals the team dashed through the section of horsewomen immediately preceding it in the parade.

The lions roared and the terrified crowd scattered in all directions. With all the strength he could summon the driver guided his team as near the center of the street as possible. The cries of the frightened lions were taken up by the whole menagerie.

The horses were halted a mile away from the starting point of the mad dash. One woman circus rider was thrown from her horse while endeavoring to escape being run down, but was unhurt.

Harry K. Thaw receives by this decree $11,390.23, which is to be paid to Roger O'Hara, trustee in bankruptcy. This is one-ninth of the balance which is distributed to the heirs.

OFF FOR TARGET PRACTICE

Philadelphia, July 19.—The battleships Idaho, Kansas and Mississippi sailed down the Delaware Monday from the Philadelphia navy yard, bound for Newport, for target practice and ship maneuvers.

The three ships carried 2500 officers and men. Their departure ends the Sunday baseball games that have aroused much interest since the season began. The Idaho's crew won the third championship, and it also won eight of the nine games played.

The three vessels will return about the middle of August, to be put in shape for the European cruise, which begins early in December.

BEWARE OF SORGHUM FRAUDS

Government Calls Attention to Misrepresentations by Seed Sellers.

The United States department of agriculture recently issued two bulletins relating to sorghum—a bulletin on "The History and Distribution of Sorghum" and a circular for free distribution on "Three Much Misrepresented Sorghums." The object of the latter is to set the people right concerning some mistakes and misrepresentations.

Recently an Oklahoma man has been selling at 50 cents a pound seed grain of what he calls "California wheat," which he declares will produce 200 to 400 bushels per acre. The department shows that this is a variety of sorghum known as shalla, which, after a thorough test a few years ago, proved only about half as productive as Kaffir corn. It is also inferior as a forage crop.

The second of these "misrepresented sorghums" is a so-called "chocolate corn," accounts of which have appeared in the press at different times. The department announces that it never had any seed of "chocolate corn" for distribution and that the plants which have sometimes received that name were simply varieties of sorghum, probably in most cases the Early Amber sorgo.

No Use for Novices.

Picking is done systematically. He employs only experts—men and women, boys and girls, from the neighborhood—and no newcomers. They receive from 1 to 2 cents a box to pick, according to the abundance of the berries. Each picker has a carrier-like basket, holding four small berry boxes, and, during the picking, they arrange the berries systematically so that they make a good appearance for shipping. The pickers need not run to the crates to empty them, as two boys constantly travel along with large baskets holding eight boxes and carry them away to the crates and pack them for shipping. Those boys also keep the accounts of the pickers by a card method. Some of the pickers average over 100 quarts per day and from twenty to twenty-five persons are at work on busy days.

Mr. Merkel has, it will be observed, made berry culture a study, and he knows just the kinds of berries that are adapted to his soil. He grows twenty varieties, so his crop lasts for two months. Among the favorites are the Dorian, known as "Uncle Jim," the William Bell, Pick of Michigan, Texas, Climax, Nickomere, Klondike, Haverland, Miller, New York, Chesapeake, Champion, Oswego, Excelsior and Virginia early. For a finer berry he has picked the Chesapeake, which is uniform in size and color and the best shipper, strong and firm, and grows large. Twenty-five of these berries usually fill a quart box, and the flavor is above that of the average strawberry. One-third of his crop this year was of this variety, and none were sold for less than 12 cents a quart box. His crop thus yielded on an average of from $425 to $469.72 an acre, and only one and three-quarter acres were in bearing condition, though he had several acres of new beds.

Now is the time to plan for beautifying the farmer's front yard, not to speak of the back yard. Among the flowers adaptable to use as ornaments there is the humble but nevertheless beautiful cornflower, which, if grown in beds, makes a rich riot of color. It grows in great profusion. It is a wild flower, making its own way in grain fields. There are several species, such as the wild poppy and the bluebonnet. The latter is the Centaurea cyanus, botanically speaking, and is especially commended for cultivation as a garden beautifier. Bacon in his natural history wrote:

"There be certain cornflowers which come seldom or never in other places unless they be set, but only among corn, as the bluebonnet, a kind of yellow margold, wild poppy and family."

Bacon's quaint description should impel many farmers to find the bluebonnet and "set" it where it will flourish for its own sake.

Go Slow on Ginseng.

My advice to those thinking of venturing in ginseng culture is to go slow and not expect too great returns, writes Mrs. D. B. Phillips in the Rural New Yorker. It requires five or six years to grow a marketable root, yet when a bed is once started and bearing seed the plants may be produced in any number. My own ginseng is growing in its natural environment, some of it not even transplanted. I searched the woods and brought home all the plants to be found, buying the small plants with green tops from the ginseng hunters for a cent each. I have several hundred plants ranging in size from a rye straw to a good sized parsnip. A number of bunches found near the house in the forest were left standing and the others planted near about. While I have no hope of ever becoming a millionaire, I think I have a pretty fair thing of it. Anyway, I am out no money. When seeds ripen I stir up the soil with a hoe and plant them near the parent stalk, then lay brush over the bed and leave them alone. Sometimes after twelve or fifteen months there will be three tiny leaves showing up, still capped by the seed shell. In gathering the wild ginseng the best roots were found where the soil was loose and moist on top, with a hard clay bed underneath.

"I have suffered with piles for thirty-six years. One year ago last April I began taking Cascades and constipation. In the course of a week I noticed the piles began to disappear and at the end of six weeks they did not trouble me at all. Cascades have done wonders for me. STRAWBERRY KING

Fleetwood, Pa., July 19.—Berks County's strawberry king is Daniel M. Merkel, and he lives on a 30-acre farm a mile east of this town. Eleven years ago he bought this farm, in a run down state, and started out as the average Berks County farmer does, growing wheat, rye, oats and corn. For one or two years he followed farm life in this old-fashioned way; but one day he sat in his kitchen and worked with his head pencil an entire afternoon, till he came to the conclusion that he would turn over a new leaf, and doing things as his father and grandfathers had done.

The result is apparent to every one who sees the Merkel farm. Instead of an old orchard with lots of dead wood, there are 130 pear trees, 75 of the Kieffer kind; 60 fine apple trees, with no evidence of the San Jose scale; 150 3-year-old peach trees and 150 1-year olds, all with that greenish hue that tells a successful story of fruit growing. When he had worked out his little problems with his lead pencil he came to the conclusion that he could raise small fruits that would be worth from $300 to $500 an acre, instead of raising $40 or $50 worth of wheat from the same acreage.

He Did Prove It.

Neighbors said: "Prove your problem." He did. Last year, Merkel harvested 10,000 boxes of strawberries from two acres of ground—$450 worth from each acre. After the expenses had been deducted for picking, cultivating, planting, etc., he had more than half this amount remaining, and ten times as much as if he had followed wheat and rye. Today he is known as the strawberry king of Berks county, not only raising more berries than any other farmer, but raising them larger and prettier. He is very exact, and everything is conducted systematically. Mr. Merkel allows his strawberry beds to bear but two years, when they are turned under by the plow. Each spring an acre is planted. During the first summer all the buds are picked off the plants; none are allowed to bear fruit, after which they are turned under the first season to go into the plants, sparing them the strain of forming pollen, which he claims weakens the stalks. The following year the plants are again allowed to bear fruit, after which they are turned under. The buds are then sown with cowpeas, which are turned down later in the summer, and the soil is sown. The following spring the rye is plowed under, and potatoes are planted, resulting always in a fine crop. In the fall, rye is again sown, and the

CHOICE CULLINGS

Ingenious Beggars.

The orient has the greatest number and probably the most persistent of beggars, but Paris has the most ingenious members of the genus extracting fraternity, according to a letter from that city. The latest delinquent to first place among the original beggars is the man who paraded a boulevard a few days ago mounted on a camel.

The animal was decorated with rags of many colors, and in the saddle, an exceedingly shabby affair, which looked as though it had seen many years of service, sat the well-dressed beggar. A pair of crutches were fastened to the saddle, and the tiny dog which is the necessary companion of every Parisian mendicant sat before him. The ship of the desert sailed until the police brought it to anchor. The man knew well that the people of Paris appreciate a novelty, and he probably made money on his camel investment before his business was shut off. "I doubt whether any one in Paris would be much surprised to see a beggar in a camel. As to the beggar on horseback, he has ceased to be a novelty," says the correspondent.

How Knob Noster Was Named.

J. M. Shepherd of Knob Noster writes concerning the origin of his town's name: "Knob Noster is situated at the foot of two beautiful hills or knobs in the western vernacular. These knobs are green and grass grown to their summits and rise out of a flat prairie from which they can be seen, or many miles. When the village was founded in the early fifties a school, built on a hill and an eastern schoolmaster was employed to teach a pay school. When he arrived at his place of employment he was struck with the beauty of the knob and, being exceedingly proud of his knowledge of Latin, named them 'Knobs Noster,' or 'Our Knobs.' The villagers were struck with the name and named their town after the designation of their Latin schoolmaster. The process of time seems to have worn the 's' from 'Knobs'."—Kansas City Star.

A Russian Prison Story.

This gruesome story comes from Moscow. In the prison at Tseringlow there were confined recently three men convicted of murder awaiting execution. One morning the jailer found the day of execution the jailer found two of them strangled and the third lying unconscious near the bodies of his cell mates. Investigation showed that the three men had resolved to cheat the gallows if possible and had thrown dice to determine which one should strangle the other two. The man who had lost made a cord from the bedclothes and carried out the fatal decree. It had been further agreed that the survivor should commit suicide, but the stranger lost courage at the last moment.

First Aid For Ivy Poisoning.

The remedies prescribed for poison ivy are various, but of such a nature that their use without the advice of a physician is risky. One realizes at the time that he has come into contact with poison ivy he should rub his hands at once with fresh, moist, fine soil, and this may remove the irritating oil before it becomes absorbed, but the work must be done very quickly. If the first sign of the disease is the itching which heralds the coming of the pustules, a physician should be consulted at once, but if none be at hand, get from a druggist a weak solution of "lead water" and apply it with absorbent cotton, but get a doctor as quickly as possible.—Designer.

Cost of Celebrating.

Colonel H. N. Renout at the old guard banquet at Delmonico's, in New York, told an instructive story about summer vacations.

"I said to a man the other day," he began, "Well, are you going to send your wife to the seashore again this summer?"

"No, sir; I'm not," said he. "I can't afford it."

"But your wife's so economical," I objected. "You told me that she spent very little at the shore last year."

"Yes, I know," said he, "but home alone I spent over a hundred a week."

Naming the Hotel Clerk.

One hotel extends an unusual courtesy—if it be a country—to its guests. Over the desk where most of the business of the hotel is done hangs a sign which says, "The clerk now on duty is Mr. Smith," or Mr. Jones, as the case may be. Whether the sign is intended to save the feelings of guests or clerks isn't quite plain. It saves the clerks from being addressed as "Hey, you," and the guests from having to say, "Oh, Mr. El-b-a-h."—New York Sun.

The Boy's Business.

"We were waiting for the elevator to come down," said a commercial traveler, "after discussing the probability of an aeroplane's crossing the Atlantic within a year, when just as the cage was about to ascend, one of the party said, 'I'll bet $10,000 that it won't be done,' and the elevator boy took him up."—Everybody's Magazine.

Boston Hotel Comforts.

"I have put up at many a hotel in New York," said a dyed-in-the-wool Bostonian, "but nowhere have I found the concrete comforts you may have at any of the better class hostleries in Boston. For example, there you will find in every room a Bible and a clothes stretcher."

"AUTOMATON," COMEDY, SINGING

Remarkable Trio of Attractions to Be Seen at Music Hall

The three big vaudeville acts, headed by Martinelli and company, made a great hit at Music Hall last evening.

The automatic figure created a great sensation, the mechanical contrivance introduced by Martinelli, the Great, was unlike anything ever before presented here, and one of the greatest vaudeville novelties ever produced. Seated in the audience, one cannot tell whether the figure that they watch is a human being or a dummy figure. It startles, thrills and mystifies the audience to a great degree. They are at one and the same time amused, surprised and deeply puzzled at this most wonderful performance. Seldom are the theatre patrons of this city privileged to see such a remarkable act at popular prices.

Mr. Max Fields, the Hebrew and Italian impersonator, entertained the audience with the story of an Italian about his little sister, to the judge in a very enthusiastic and original manner. He did some excellent character work, and will be remembered by many as the comedian in the western melodrama "Deadwood Dick," played here not long ago. Mr. Fields has just finished a ten weeks' engagement in Boston at the Globe and other well known theatres, and with his great ability in this line of work, he is sure to meet with continued success.

It was indeed a rare treat to hear the baritone selections by Miss Pauline Carr. She gave the following: "If Those Lips Could Only Speak," "I've Lost My Gal," and the coon song "Amada, How Do You Do." In a charming manner, and received great applause which she well deserved.

Miss Carr is one of Boston's popular singing comedians and has been in musical comedy and vaudeville several seasons. For a single act, Miss Carr's is one of the best given here this season.

The moving pictures were of the customary Music Hall high standard.

YORK COUNTY WOMAN

Admitted to Practice of Law in United States Courts

Portland, July 19.—Mrs. Eva Bean of Saco, has been admitted to the practice of law in the United States circuit court for the district of Maine and with this honor goes to her the credit of being the only woman lawyer in the state to be so recognized. In fact, it is thought that the Saco woman is one of the very few women lawyers to be allowed this privilege outside the city of Boston. Mrs. Bean took her oath in the matter before Judge Clarence Hale in the United States court for this district, in Portland last week Friday. Her mother, Mrs. Waterhouse, of Old Orchard, was one of the interested spectators to the ceremony which was simple but none the less interesting. Mrs. Bean was the only person to be admitted at that time. She is very well known in this section socially as well as professionally. She has an office in the law office of J. O. Bradbury in Saco. She was recommended for admission by Assistant United States District Attorney Chapman.

THE CHARLTON CASE

Months Will Elapse Before the Matter is Closed Up

Washington, July 19.—Whether or not Porter Charlton, accused of having murdered his wife at Lake Como, Italy, must face trial in Italy, gives promise of being a long drawn out affair. The intention of the state department to wait for the New Jersey courts to act on the question of his extradition before passing on the intricate problems of reciprocity and mutuality of interpretation of the treaty was expressed today by an official of the department. The statement was reiterated that the department has not passed on any of the problems reported to be involved in the case.

It became known today that should Charlton be liberated by the New Jersey court, he may have to face further extradition proceedings in another court. Precedents are said to have been found for repeated attempts to procure a court order for extradition.

In event of favorable action on the extradition papers by the court or of adverse action, it is regarded as probable that it will be months before official channels are cleared of the case.

Bangor Man Grabs a Wheel on Vaughan St. and Starts for Boston

Ashley Hooper, aged 19, claiming Bangor as his home, was arrested this forenoon by Officers Dorke and Hurley for stealing a bicycle.

Hooper took possession of the bike on Vaughan street and immediately started in the direction of the Plains. Parties who were watching his movements telephoned the police and at the same time gave a description of the man.

He had passed over the overhead bridge at the Plains when he met a man of whom he inquired the road to Boston. He was directed to turn around and take another route which he did.

It was then that he ran into the police who brought him back to town where he was booked for larceny. He told the hard luck story and admitted stealing the machine. His plan was to ride to Boston and dispose of the bike for whatever he could raise.

The bicycle is the property of Fred Canney.

REFUSES THE JOB

Young Reed Declines to Go Back to Maine

Declining the offer of the United States geological survey, to return him to the position of topographic aid from which he was discharged because of his color, Dwight T. Reed is to accept a position with a railroad engineering firm in Chicago.

Since young Reed accepted the offer of the department, a Chicago man who interested himself in his case, advised him not to return to work with the department, and offered to place him with his company when he was ready to go to work. Samuel Reed, young Reed's father, received word to that effect from his son today.

Young Reed is now employed in a summer hotel in Delevan, Wis., that is patronized mainly by Chicago business men, one of whom interested himself in Reed and advised him not to return.
